IRS REGULATIONS (Current as of January, 1, 2023)A. HDHP coverage is health coverage that meets the following requirements:

- Self-only (Single) Coverage: Self-only coverage is coverage of one individual. To qualify as HDHP coverage, it must have a deductible of at least $1,500 for 2023 before any reimbursement is made for eligible medical expenses (other than preventive care). In addition, the sum of the deductible and other annual out-of-pocket expenses that the insured is required to pay (such as co-pays and co-insurance, but not premiums) cannot exceed $7,500 for 2023.
- Family (and E+1) Coverage: Family coverage is any coverage other than self-only coverage. Family HDHP must have a deductible of at least $3,000 for 2023 before any reimbursement is made for eligible medical expenses (other than preventive care). No amounts can be paid (other than for preventive care) until the minimum required family deductible has been satisfied. In other words, there cannot be an individual deductible within the family deductible that is less than the required minimum of $3,000 for 2023. In addition, the sum of the deductible and other annual out-of-pocket expenses that the insured is required to pay (such as co-payments and co-insurance, but not premiums) cannot exceed $15,000 for 2023.

B. Permitted non-HDHP insurance:

- Insurance in which substantially all of the coverage relates to liabilities incurred under workers' compensation laws, tort liabilities, liabilities relating to ownership or use of property (e.g., home-owner or auto insurance), or similar liabilities as specified by the IRS;
- Insurance for a specified disease or illness (e.g., cancer insurance);
- Insurance that pays a fixed amount per day (or other period) of hospitalization (e.g., hospital indemnity insurance);
- Coverage for accidents, disability, dental care, vision care, or long-term care;
- Coverage under some medical reimbursement accounts and health reimbursement arrangements (HRAs) (e.g., limited purpose medical reimbursement accounts and HRAs, suspended HRAs, post-deductible medical reimbursement accounts and HRAs, and retirement HRAs); or
- Coverage under some wellness programs and employee assistance programs (e.g., those that do not provide significant benefits in the nature of non-preventive medical care or treatment).

C. Special Rules for Married Individuals:

- If your spouse has family coverage under another plan (that includes you), this coverage must qualify as HDHP coverage in order for you to be eligible for HSA deposits. For example, if your spouse has family coverage (that includes you) under an HMO or a low-deductible plan, then you would be ineligible for HSA deposits.
- Similarly, if your spouse has a medical reimbursement plan (HRA, VEBA, MSRS HCSP, MSA, etc.), this disqualifies you from HSA deposits, unless your spouse's plan "excludes" you and all dependents on your HDHP –or– your spouse's plan has been "suspended".
- In addition, if your spouse has a medical flex spending account (medical FSA), this disqualifies you from HSA deposits, unless the balance in your spouse's account is zero at the end of your spouse's plan year or grace period (this may be earlier, if so advised by your financial advisor) –and– your spouse will not re-enroll in a medical FSA next year.
- In addition, the amount of your total HSA deposits may be limited per IRS regulations, if your spouse has HDHP family coverage and an HSA.
